

PEA

2. Without disturbance.
The pangs of death do make him grin;
Disturb him not, let him pass peacefully. Shakef.
PEACEFUL, adj. [peace and full.]
1. Quiet; not in war.
That rous'd the Tyrrhene realm with loud alarms,
And peaceful Italy involv'd in arms. Dryden.
2. Pacifick; mild.
As one disarm'd, his anger all he lost;
And thus with peaceful words uprais'd her soon.
The peaceful power that governs love repairs,
To feast upon soft vows and silent prayers. Dryden.
3. Undisturbed; still; secure.
Succeeding monarchs heard the subjects cries,
Nor saw displeas'd the peaceful cottage rise. Pope.
PEACEFULLY, adv. [from peaceful.]
1. Quietly; without disturbance.
Our lov'd earth, where peacefully we slept,
And far from heav'n quiet possession kept. Dryden.
2. Mildly; gently.
PEACEFULNESS, n. f. [from peaceful.] Quiet; freedom from disturbance.
PEACEMAKER, n. f. [peace and maker.] One who reconciles differences.
Peace, good queen;
And whet not on these too too furious peers,
For blessed are the peacemakers. Shakef.
Think us,
Those we profess, peacemakers, friends and servants. Shak.
PEACEPARTED, adj. [peace and parted.] Dismissed from the world in peace.
We should prophane the service of the dead
To sing a requiem, and such rest to her
As to peaceparted souls. Shakef. Hamlet.
PEACH, n. f. [pesche, Fr. malum persicum, Lat.]
A peach hath long narrow leaves; the flower consists of several leaves, which are placed in a circular order, and expand in form of a rose; the pointal, which rises from the center of the flower cup, becomes a roundish fleshy fruit, having a longitudinal furrow inclosing a rough rugged stone. Miller.
September is drawn with a cheerful countenance: in his left hand a handful of millet, withal carrying a cornucopia of ripe peaches, pears and pomegranates. Peacbam.
The sunny wall,
Presents the downy peach. Thomson's Autumn.
TO PEACH, v. n. [Corrupted from impeach.] To accuse of some crime.
If you talk of peaching, I'll peach first, and see whose oath will be believed; I'll trounce you. Dryden.
PEACH-COLOURED, adj. [peach and colour.] Of a colour like a peach.
One Mr. Caper comes, at the suit of Mr. Threepile the mercer, for some four suits of peach-coloured fatten, which now peaches him a beggar. Shakef. Measure for Measure.
PEACHICK, n. f. [pea and chick.] The chicken of a peacock.
Does the sniveling peachick think to make a cuckold of me. Southey.
PEACOCK, n. f. [papa, Saxon; pavo, Lat.] Of this word the etymology is not known: perhaps it is peak cock, from the tuft of feathers on its head; the peak of women being an ancient ornament: if it be not rather a corruption of beacocks, Fr. from the more striking lustre of its spangled train. A fowl eminent for the beauty of its feathers, and particularly of its tail.
Let frantick Talbot triumph for a while;
And, like a peacock, sweep along his tail. Shakef.
The birds that are hardest to be drawn, are the tame birds; as cock, turkey-cock and peacock. Peacbam.
The peacock, not at thy command, assumes
His glorious train; nor estrich her rare plumes. Sandys.
The peacock's plumes thy tackle must not fail,
Nor the dear purchase of the fable's tail. Gay.
PEACHEN, n. f. [pea and hen; pavia, Lat.] The female of the peacock.
PEAC, n. f. [peace, Saxon; piques, pie, French.]
1. The top of a hill or eminence.
Thy sister seek,
Oron Meander's bank or Latmus' peak. Prior.
2. Any thing acuminated.
The rising forehead of a head-dress.
TO PEAK, v. n. [pequeno, Spanish, little, perhaps lean: but I believe this word has some other derivation: we say a withered man has a sharp face; Falstaff dying, is said to have anose as sharp as a pen: from this observation, a sickly man is said to peak or grow acuminated.
1. To look sickly.
Weary fennights, nine times nine,
Shall he dwindle, peak and pine. Shakef. Macbeth.
2. To make a mean figure; to inebriate.
I, a dull and muddy mettled rascal, peak,
Like John a dreams, unpregnant of my cause, Shakef.
The peaking cornuto her husband, dwelling in a continual

- larum of jealousy, comes me in the instant of our encounter. Shakef.
PEAR, n. f. [Perhaps from pello, pellere tympa.] Shakef.
1. A succession of loud sounds: as, of bells, thunder, cannon, loud instruments.
They were saluted by the way, with a fair pear of artillery from the tower. Hayward.
The breach of faith cannot be so highly expressed, as in that it shall be the last pear to call the judgments of God upon men. Bacon's Essays.
Woods of oranges will smell into the sea perhaps twenty miles; but what is that, since a pear of ordinance will do as much, which moveth in a small compass? Bacon.
A pear shall rouse their sleep;
Then all thy faints assembled, thou shalt judge
Bad men and angels. Milt. Par. Reg.
I myself,
Vanquish'd with a pear of words, O weaknes;
Gave up my fort of silence to a woman. Milton.
From the Moors camp the noise grows louder still;
Pears of shouts that rend the heav'n's, Dryden.
Oh! for a pear of thunder that would make
Earth, sea and air, and heaven and Cato tremble! Addis.
2. It is once used by Shakef. for a slow dull noise, but improperly.
Ere to black Hecar's summons
The shard-born beetle with his drowsy hums,
Hath rung night's yawning pear, there shall be done
A deed of dreadful note. Shakef. Macbeth.
TO PEAR, v. n. [from the noun.] To play solemnly and loud.
Let the pealing organ blow,
To the full-voic'd quire below,
In service high and anthems clear,
As may with sweetness through mine ear,
Disolve me into extasies,
And bring all heav'n before my eyes. Milton.
The pealing organ, and the pausing choir;
And the last words, that dust to dust convey'd. Tickell.
TO PEAR, v. a.
1. To assail with noise.
Nor was his ear less pear'd
With noises loud and ruinous, than when Bellona forms,
With all her batt'ring engines bent to rafe
Some capital city. Milton's Paradise Lost.
2. To stir with some agitation: as, to pear the pot, is when it boils to stir the liquor therein with a ladle. Drif.
PEAR, n. f. [poire, French; pyram, Latin.]
The flower consists of several leaves, placed in a circular order, and expand in form of a rose, whose flower cup becomes a fleshy fruit, which is more produced toward the foot-stalk than the apple, but is hollowed like a navel at the extreme part; the cells, in which the seeds are lodged, are separated by soft membranes, and the seeds are oblong. The species are eighty-four: 1. Little mull pear, commonly called the supreme. 2. The Chio pear, commonly called the little bastard mull pear. 3. The juicy pear. Thomson.
Lies in a soft profusion scatter'd round.
PEARL, n. f. [perle, Fr. perla, Spanish; supposed by Salmasius to come from sphæula, Latin.]
Pearls, though esteemed of the number of gems by our jewellers, are but a distemper in the creature that produces them: the fish in which pearls are most frequently found is the East Indian herbes or pearl oyster: others are found to produce pearls; as the common oyster, the mullet, and various other kinds; but the Indian pearls are superior to all: some pearls have been known of the size of a pigeon's egg; as they increase in size, they are less frequent and more valued: the true shape of the pearl is a perfect round; but some of a considerable size are of the shape of a pear, and serve for ear-rings: their colour ought to be a pure, clear and brilliant white, and they bring their natural polish with them, to which art can never attain: it is reported, that pearls naturally of a yellowish cast, never alter, that this tinge never grows deeper, and that the lustre of the pearl never fades, which is therefore justly preferred by the Orientals to such as are purely white: from the name given to the pearl, some have been led to believe, that there was only one found in each shell; this is indeed usually the case in oysters and mullies; but in the oriental pearl shell fix or eight are frequent, and sometimes twenty or more. Hill.
A pearl-julep was made of a distilled milk. Wifeman.
Flow's purified, blue and white,
Like sapphire, pearl, in rich embroidery
Buckled below fair knighthood's bending knee. Shakef.
Catarrhs pearl-coloured, and those of the colour of burnished iron, are esteemed proper to endure the needle. Sharp.
PEARL, n. f. [alaba, Lat.] A white speck or film growing on the eye. Ainsworth.
PEARLED, adj. [from pearl.] Adorned or set with pearls.
The water nymphs
Held up their pearled wrists, and took her in,
Bearing her straight to aged Nereus' hall. Milton.

2. Resembling pearls.
Which when she heard, full pearly floods
In her eyes might view. Dryden.
'Tis sweet the blushing morn to view,
And plains adorn'd with pearly dew,
For what the day devours, the nightly dew
Shall to the morn in pearly drops renew. Dryden.
PEARMAN, n. f. An apple.
Pearmain is an excellent and well known fruit. Mortimer.
PEARTREE, n. f. [pear and tree.] The tree that bears pears.
The peartree critics will have to borrow his name of wee, fire. Bacon.
PEASANT, n. f. [paisant, Fr.] A hind; one whose business is rural labour.
He holdeth himself a gentleman, and scorneth to work, which, he faith, is the life of a peasant or churl. Senfer.
Our superfluous lacqueys and our peasants,
Whoin unnecessary action swarm
About our squares of battle. Shakef.
I had rather coin my heart, than wring
From the hard hands of peasants their vile trash. Shakef.
'Tis difficult for us, who are bred up with the same infirmities about us with which we were born, to raise our thoughts and imaginations to those intellectual perfections that attended our nature in the time of innocence, as it is for a peasant bred up

PEC

- in the obscurities of a cottage, to fancy in his mind the unseen splendours of a court. South's Sermons.
The citizens would bring two thousand men, with which they could make head against twelve thousand peasants. Addison.
PEASANTRY, n. f. Peasants; rusticks; country people.
How many then should cover, that stand bare?
How much low peasantry would then be gleaned
From the true seed of honour? how much honour
Picked from the chaff? Shakef. Merch. of Venice.
The peasantry in France under a much heavier pressure of want and poverty than the day-labourers of England of the reformed religion, understood it much better than those of a higher condition among us. Locke.
PEASCOD. n. f. [pea, cod and shell.] The husk that contains peas. Shakef. King Lear.
Thou art a sheal'd peascod. Shakef. King Lear.
I saw a green caterpillar as big as a small peascod. Waltm.
As peasfods once I pluck'd, I chanc'd to see
One that was closely fill'd with three times three.
I o'er the door the spell in secret laid. Goy.
PEASE, n. f. [Pea, when it is mentioned as a single body, makes pea; but when spoken of collectively, as food or a species, it is called pease, anciently peasun; pira, Saxon; poi, French; pise, Italian; pisum, Latin.] Food of pease.
Sowe peasun and beans in the wane of the moon;
Who soweth them sooner, he soweth too soon. Tusser.
Pease, deprived of any aromatic parts, are mild and demulcent; but, being full of aerial particles, are flatulent. Arb.
PEAT, n. f. A species of turf used for fire.
Turf and peat, and cowlheards are cheap fuels and last long. Bacon's Natural History.
Carew, in his survey of Cornwall, mentions nuts found in peat-earth two miles East of St. Michael's mount. Woodw.
PEAT, n. f. [from petit, Fr.] A little fondling; a darling; a dear play thing. It is now commonly called pet.
A pretty peat! it is best put finger in the eye,
An flew the why. Shakef. Taming of the Shrew.
A citizen and his wife
Both riding on one horse, upon the way
I overtook; the wench a pretty peat. Donne.
PEBBLE. n. f. [pebbol, Saxon; pebble, Latin.] A stone dis-
PEBBLESTONE. n. f. [from pebble and stone.] A stone of flint, being not in layers, but in one homogeneous mass, though sometimes of many colours. Popularly a small stone.
Through the midst of it ran a sweet brook, which did both hold the eye open with her azure streams, and yet seek to close the eye with the purling noise it made upon the pebblestones it ran over. Sidney, b. i.
The bishop and the duke of Gloster's men,
Forbidden late to carry any weapon,
Have fill'd their pockets full of pebblestones. Shakef.
Suddenly a file of boys deliver'd such a shower of pebbles loose shot, that I was fain to draw mine honour in. Shakef.
You may see pebbles gathered together, and a crust of cement between them, as hard as the pebbles. Bacon.
Collecting toys,
As children gath'ring pebbles on the shore. Milton.
Providence permitted not the strength of the earth to spend itself in base gravel and pebbles instead of quarries of stones. More's Antidote against Atheism.
Winds murmur'd through the leaves your long delay;
And fountains o'er the pebbles chid your stay. Dryden.
Another body, that hath only the resemblance of an ordinary pebble, shall yield a metallic and valuable matter. Woodw.
PEBBLE-CRYSTAL, n. f.
The crystal, in form of nodules, is found lodged in the earthy strata left in a train by the water departing at the conclusion of the deluge: this sort, called by the lapidaries pebble-crystal, is in shape irregular. Woodward.

The pebbly gravel next.
PECCABILITY, n. f. [from peccare.] State of being subject to sin.
Where the common peccability of mankind is urged to induce commiseration towards the offenders; if this be of force in sin, where the concurrence of the will renders the person more inexcusable, it will surely hold much more in bare error which is purely involuntary. Decay of Piety.
PECCABLE, adj. [from pecco, Lat.] Incident to sin.
PECCADILLO. [Spanish; peccadillo, French.] A petty fault; a slight crime; a venial offence.
He means those little vices, which we call follies and the defects of the human understanding, or at most the peccadillos of life, rather than the tragical vices to which men are hurried by their unruly passions. Dryden.
'Tis low ebb with his accusers, when such peccadillos as these are put in to swell the charge. Atterbury.
